The Learning Edge is pleased to announce our schedule for two upcoming dates for our comprehensive leadership program. It is designed for managers, business owners and executives. Managing Things...Leading People focuses on management and leadership skills, team building, and managing change.

The Program

This comprehensive program has benefited thousands of managers, business owners and executives. A 15 year track record of outstanding success in presenting this program to all levels of management, can provide you with the following benefits.

- Transform your managerial talents into dynamic leadership skills.
- Learn new techniques to create a positive work environment and avoid "cultural poison".
- Identify your leadership strengths and weaknesses.
- Captivate your customers through enhanced influencing skills, presence, and confidence.
- Develop a charismatic presentation style and project an amplified positive mental attitude.
- Generate increased team productivity by working effectively with different styles.
- Read the motivational "buttons" that guarantee customer and team buy-in.
- Learn how to lead both individuals and teams at different stages of development.
- Develop and master rapport building approaches that increase greater trust.

The Facilitator

Dr. Denis Shackel, a specialist in developing Human Resources, successfully presents workshops designed to unlock the talents of those within management, business, and government organizations. Denis' experience includes a full Professorship at the University of Toronto teaching educational psychology and where, in 2000, he was honoured as Professor of the Year.

Denis was honoured again in 2004 by being chosen Professor of the Year at the prestigious Ivey School of Business where he currently teaches Management Communications.

The Learning Edge

The Learning Edge Inc. is a Western Canadian based business training and consulting organization serving Canadian businesses. The Learning Edge's services are offered either as public programs or presented as in-house programs for organizations who want a program customized to meet their specific needs.
